This Week we will hear from Rachel Macauley

Rachel Macauley serves as the Program Manager for a portfolio of capacity-building programs in Liberia, operated under JSI Research & Training Institute, Inc. In this role, she oversees project development, implementation, and donor compliance. Rachel works closely with Liberian civil society, government, and youth organizations to create leadership opportunities for promising young Liberians, provide technical training, and build human resource capacity within various ministries and agencies. Particularly essential during the current Ebola outbreak, the President's Young Professionals Program (www.pyppliberia.org) leverages the existing potential of Liberia's youth to contribute to good governance and strong leadership.
