Last Week

ARC Member and past Assistant Governor for District 7610 Joe Lott explained how he developed a love of Japanese woodblock prints and amassed a considerable collection over the years. Showing some of his own collection, as well as slides of many others, he also explained the history of the form, the key periods of style, the techniques used, and the specifics of some of its key practitioners. Joe has turned his passion into a new business venture, selling parts of his collection (Japanese and other prints) online at www.art-eclectic.com.
